

CONGRATULATIONS TO NINETEEN RCMP OFFICERS TRAINED TO DELIVER TRAINING TO POLICE OFFICERS ON INTIMATE PARTNER VIOLENCE

December, 2009. Intervening in situations of intimate partner violence (IPV) is one of the most difficult aspects of policing and police officers are often the first members of the law enforcement system to be encountered by victims. Successful interventions rely on effective practices. Being equipped with an understanding of the complexities of IPV will help enhance police response. The Muriel McQueen Fergusson Centre for Family Violence Research (MMFC) offered the train-the-trainer training program entitled Understanding the Impact of Intimate Partner Violence: Helping Police Officers to Better Intervene to nineteen (19) New Brunswick-based RCMP officers on December 1 & 2, 2009. Dr. Carmen Gill, Director of MMFC congratulated the police officers that are now trained to deliver the training program to their colleagues.
